VOL. XII

DIDSBUY, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 21st, 1914

No. 8

NOT CORRECT INFORMATION

has been circulated that the merchants in Didsbury had no goods since the fire. We wish to state to the Public that our stock of Clothing, Men's Furnishings is nearly complete, and more arriving nearly every day. For instance in two days we received 33 boxes of new goods consisting of Invictus Shoes, Fine and Working Shirts, Overalls, Socks, Gloves Caps, Underwear, Over-shoes and Rubbers.

We are doing our best to accommodate our customers and if you wish to purchase or not we give you a hearty invitation to call in and see us. Our present location is three doors north of the Post Office, Mrs. Stevens Millinery Store, and in about 15 days we will be in our store opposite the Jackson Block, the east part of W. G. Liesemer's Hardware Store which is now going up.

Yours as ever for a square deal,

J. V. BERSCHT

Secretary-Treasurer.

AROUND THE TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Teare left on Tuesday for a visit to friends in South Auburn, Neb.

D. J. Witwer, a former resident of Didsbury, has again been elected Councillor at Acme.

Bert Cressman, of the Jones Bros. & Teare, left on Friday evening for a few weeks' holidays at Seattle, Wash., and other points.

Mr. F. R. Bullis of the Didsbury Hotel Company has turned over all his interests in the hotel business in Didsbury to Mr. C. E. Baker.

Don't forget the masquerade ball to be held in the Opera House on Friday evening, January 23rd. Everybody cordially invited to attend. Excellent prizes given for best costumes.

In the report of "where to find the different merchants" last week, the location of Mr. J. Nixon, jeweler, was unintentionally omitted. Mr. Nixon is located in Dr. Lackner's building, north of Union Bank.

A thimblester will be given at the home of Mrs. D. H. Marshall on Wednesday afternoon, January 28th, from 3 to 5 p.m. All the ladies of Didsbury are cordially invited.

Town Clerk St. Clair is making up the tax enforcement list of delinquent tax payers. If you owe any taxes and wish to protect your property you had better get in touch with the clerk at once.

J. V. Bercht has been appointed Register of births, marriages and deaths for this district. All such matters must be registered with Mr. Bercht according to law and all papers connected with same can be obtained at Mr. Bercht's store.

A meeting of hockey enthusiasts from Didsbury, Olds, Carstairs and Crossfield was held in town last week for the purpose of organizing a four team hockey league. The first game will be played on January 20, when Didsbury goes to Carstairs and Olds to Crossfield.

T. R. Bullis, late of the Didsbury Hotel Co., left on Friday for Belding, Mich., and points in eastern Ontario. Mr. Bullis while a stranger to most people in town has the sympathy of all those who do know him, when it is stated that besides losing his hotel in the recent fire, Mrs. Bullis has been taken down with pleuro-pneumonia, his little daughter lost the sight of one eye through an accident at Belding, Mich., and he himself sustained a sprained ankle while looking after the temporary buildings being erected for the hotel company here. It is to be hoped that things will soon take a turn and that before the New Year has gone very much further his troubles will be greatly lessened.

Placing the Goat

An anecdote of President Hayes is told by an Englishman who formed one of a party of his compatriots while the president and his family were at Clark's ranch, near Yosemite. The two parties were assembled in the rude kitchen awaiting the coming meal. A certain stiffness prevailed at first. At last a master of ceremonies and introducer appeared in the shape of a small and elegant quadruped, evidently a family pet, which trotted into the kitchen to be caressed. A lady of the English party gently stroked its stem, the president its stern. Presently they met, about the center of the animal, and the interchange of a few remarks became inevitable. This is a very pretty goat, from the English lady. My end is antelope, madam, from the president. It need scarcely be said that both ends were antelope, but the reply was very neat.

A Simple and Cheap Medicine.—A simple, cheap and effective medicine is something to be desired. There is no medicine so effective a regulator of the digestive system as Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. They are simple, they are cheap, they can be got anywhere, and their beneficial action will prove their recommendation. They are the medicine of the poor man and those who wish to escape doctors bills will do well in giving them a trial.

Trees and the Soil

The soil is a resource of priceless value. Its formation on rocks is exceedingly slow. According to Professor J. Bowman, many glacial scratches that were made on rock during the last glacial period, between 60,000 and 75,000 years ago, are still fresh as if they had been made only yesterday. Yet since the glacial period recorded themselves man has come up from the cave and the stone hammer. Seventy thousand years is a very short time for the development of a soil cover. For man it means a period so great that the mind can hardly grasp it. The cutting off of the trees exposes the soil so that the rain beats upon it, and since it has lost the protection that the roots and the litter on the ground afforded the soil is soon washed away. In fifty years a single lumber merchant can deprive the face of soil that required 10,000 years to form.

Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

Shoes and Nerves

Travelers say that the reason why nervous people don't exist in China is because it is there the custom to wear soft shoes. There is no doubt that hard soled, creaking footgear is responsible for much nervous wear and tear as well as much physical fatigue in western lands. Tired feet and tired nerves will find solace in a warm foot bath with a handful of sea salt in it. Move the feet about or keep them still as best pleases you as long as the water is pleasantly warm; then dry them with a rough towel and put on a fresh pair of stockings.

CAUGHT COLD IN WOUND

It may be only a scratch or cut to begin with, but the deadly germs get into it and soon you are a victim of blood-poisoning. You say you caught cold in the wound and it festered. Now it is red and fiery, and threatens serious trouble.

You can never estimate what it is worth to have Dr. Chase's Ointment at hand all the time to apply in just such cases of emergency. The most important thing this ointment does is to prevent blood-poisoning. It depresses the nerves, contracts the small arteries and veins, and stops bleeding. By its antiseptic influence it keeps out the poisonous germs and heals up the wound.

Dr. Chase's Ointment quickly soothes itching and burning, and seems to heal more quickly than anything that has been discovered. As a cure for eczema it has never been rivalled, and what more severe test could you apply? To try Dr. Chase's Ointment is to prove its unusual merit and to keep it always at hand for instant use.

A youngster was much depressed by loneliness. His own brother had gone away for a week, and the lad across the street, with whom he played occasionally, was ill in bed. Moreover, there were no toys that he found amusing.

In this sad state his mother found him. Perhaps, she suggested, I can play with you. What is it you wish to play, Indians?

No, man, sighed the boy. I wish I was two little dogs, so I could play together.

Exhausted from Asthma. Many who read these words know the terrible drain upon health and strength which comes in the train of asthmatic troubles. Many do not realize, however, that there is a true remedy which will surely stop this drain. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is a wonderful check to this enervating ailment. It has a countless record of relief to its credit. It is sold almost everywhere.

Red Flannel

Red flannel as a cure for rheumatism has many adherents. No doubt the flannel keeps warm and protects the stiff joint and sore muscles, but as far as the color goes any other in the spectrum would be fully as effective. Like many of our boy and girl superstitions, the notion has become so deeply grounded as to have an undoubtedly favorable mental effect. Perish the iconoclast who would destroy it!

The Brave Butterfly

Here is an unorthodox story of King Solomon: One day a butterfly sat on the king's temple and boasted to his wife: If I chose I could lift my wing and shiver this building to the ground. Solomon, overhearing, sent for the boaster. How dare you? he thundered. The butterfly groveled. I did it to impress my wife, he pleaded. The great monarch was instantly appeased and let him go. What did Solomon say to you? gasped a quivering wife five minutes later. Oh, he begged me not to do it, said the butterfly airily. And Solomon, again overhearing, smiled.

For Baking Success

—This Oven Test

Success on some baking days can be expected no matter what flour you use. But constant success is rarer. It can be assured in only one way. The miller must select his wheat by oven test.

So from each shipment of wheat we take ten pounds as a sample. We grind this into flour. Bread is baked from the flour.

If this bread is high in quality, large in quantity, we use the shipment from which it came. Otherwise we sell it.

Constant baking success comes as a matter of course from flour bearing this name.

Premiums Upon Babies

Augustus, emperor of Rome, made babies a passport to office. By the Lex Papia Poppaea, passed in A.D. 8, definite preference as regards office was given to the others of satisfactorily large families. Such fathers were eligible for office before twenty-five. They took precedence of colleagues with no children or fewer than three and were preferred all round. The privilege was called the Ius trium liberorum (three children privilege), but the qualifying number, three in Rome, was four in Italy, five in the provinces. The system, however, never worked well.

Ribbons

The original spelling of ribbon was ribband, for it was a band that went around the waist, inclosing or binding the ribs. The hair ribbon is thus a very odd verbal paradox.

Hockey News

On January 7th, a meeting was held at Olds to discuss the formation of a High School League in this district. The meeting was attended by Mr. L. E. Grace of the Olds High School, Messrs Gusdale and Flack of the Olds Agricultural College and Mr. Johnson of the Didsbury High School. As a result of the meeting a league was formed and the following schedule drawn up:

Monday, Jan. 12. D.H.S. vs O.A.C. at Olds.

Friday, Jan. 16. O.H.S. vs D.H.S. at Didsbury.

Monday, Jan. 19. O.A.C. vs O.H.S. at Olds.

Friday, Jan. 23. O.A.C. vs D.H.S. at Didsbury.

Monday, Jan. 26. D.H.S. vs O.H.S. at Olds.

Friday, Jan. 30. O.A.C. vs O.H.S. at Olds.

Defeating the Olds High School team by a score of 11 to 3 last Friday evening the Didsbury High School continued their surprising progress toward the honors of the High School league. There was not a great deal of combination displayed, but the sensational skating and acrobatic rushes kept the audience on its toes half of the time. The game was an exhibition of clean fast hockey though the visitors showed lack of practice. The home team had the advantage of being faster skaters while their stick handling was a surprise and a pleasure to witness. The game was free from rough work though a number of players were penalized for body checking. Lee Curtis was a fair and impartial referee. The next game will be played Friday evening when the Olds Agricultural College will invade the town with a team which the claim can give the Olds a hot chase for the honors.

High School Wins First Game

The first game of the High School league was played on Monday evening when Didsbury came up to meet the team from the agricultural school. The score was 12 to 3 in favor of the visitors who have a strong team and a few very fast players. The Agricultural school team are heavier but lack the necessary training, a number of the boys having had only one or two practices. When the boys get going rightly they should give the Didsbury team a hard run for the honors.—Olds Gazette.

Newspaper Law

1—The postmaster is required to give notice by letter (returning the paper does not answer the law) when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office, and state the reason for its not being taken. A neglect to do this makes the post master responsible to the publisher for payment.

2—If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrears, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made and collect the whole amount whether the paper is taken from the office or not.

3—Any person who takes a paper out of the post office, whether directed to his name or not, is responsible for the pay.

4—If a subscriber orders his paper stopped and the publisher continues sending it, the subscriber is bound to pay for it if he takes it from the post office. This proceeds upon the grounds that a man must pay for what he uses.

5—The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers or periodicals from the post office or removing, leaving them uncalled for in prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

Officers of King Hiram Lodge

The election and installation of officers of King Hiram Lodge No. 21, A. F. & A. M., G. R. C., took place in the lodge rooms last December (before the fire) and resulted as follows:

W. M.—John Nixon,
J. P. M.—John Anderson,
Sen. W.—H. E. Osmond,
Jun. W.—J. L. McInnes,
Secretary—P. R. Reed,
Treasurer—C. L. Peterson,
S. D.—J. R. Good,
J. D.—A. Russo,
S. S.—A. Gertz,
I. G.—G. F. Smith,
Tyler—J. A. Findlay.

Krafchenko Captured

Winnipeg, Jan. 18.—John Krafchenko, gunman, proven desperado, believed to be the man who held up and murdered the Plum Creek banker a short time ago, conceded to be the most desperate criminal in Western Canada, hero of one of the most sensational escapes from prison ever occurring in the jail annals of the Dominion, and upon whose head a price of $10,000 had been placed, was taken without the turning of a hair tonight, and is lodged in the provincial jail.

The arrest of this desperado, concerning whose exploits the whole of Western Canada is ringing, was as tame as his achievements have been sensational. The police were advised of his whereabouts, an apartment block in the centre of the city. Chief MacPherson and several other officers entered the room.

Crippled by a badly sprained ankle Krafchenko sat in an easy chair as the officers entered. The smile with which he greeted the intruders was a harbinger of peace, rather than of war. He made no effort to rise and gave utterance to no protest.

"We've got you, Jack," said the chief. "If you will play square we will treat you right."

"All right," said the gunman, and that was all there was to it. The man who has had the blue-coated guardians of the peace of the west by the ears for the past two weeks, submitted quietly to arrest, and was taken away to jail.

John Westlake, who was living with the gunman, in a small apartment, was also arrested.

Percy Hagle, counsel for Krafchenko, is known to be under police surveillance.

Constable Reid, one of the guards who was with Krafchenko, when he made his escape, was arrested late Saturday night.

Premier Whitney Brought Home

New York, Jan. 18.—James Whitney, the premier of Ontario, who has been ill of heart disease at the Manhattan hotel since December 14, left for Toronto to night on a special car attached to the New York Central train leaving the Grand Central station at 8:05 p. m.

On the train with him are Lady Whitney and family physician to Sir James, Dr. R. A. Pyne, minister of education and Horace Willis, the premier's private secretary. Today's examination of the patient, whose life has been despaired of at various times since his arrival here, convinced Dr. Pyne and Dr. Herman M. Biggs of this city, who has been consulting physician in the case, that the patient could stand the removal home.

The Clerks was instructed to advertise for tenders for unloading coal from the cars to the municipal power house.

COMPLAINTS are rife in regard to the early closing by-law, not being properly observed by some merchants in the town to the detriment of those merchants who do abide by the by-law. If the by-laws passed by the town are to be defied we might just as well have no town government because practically speaking the town is governed by these laws. The law abiding merchants in this case are made the sufferers because they observe the laws which is far from being fair and just. If the by-law is not workable, or is causing trouble through its inefficiency then it should be either amended or rescinded by the Town Council. If it is decided that the by-law is right then it should be enforced and protection given to those who observe the law.

AT one time when the towns on the C. & E. were drawing trade from a hundred miles from each side of the C. & E. railway and farmers who had to come from a very long distance could not get in until night there was some excuse for keeping the stores open every evening, but since the country to the east of us has become so well settled and new towns have come into existence this necessity has passed away and it is doubtful if the early closing of the stores has worked any hardship on the farmers in the Didsbury district who have become accustomed to the early closing of the stores. As for the townspeople, if the law was carried out, it would soon be recognized that they would have to get their shopping done earlier which would be no hardship to them.

NOTHING can be more humorous than to hear women in slit skirts and osprey-trimmed hats rushing around talking license reduction and crying out "Save the Boy." Almost equally ridiculous is the well intended remarks of the minister who wants to abolish a few bars to effect the same purpose.

License reduction is a good thing, if there is no legitimate need for the number in existence, or if some of the licenses are not conducting respectable hotels. There are saloons in the cities and other places which should be eliminated. They should have been done away with years ago. They serve no good purpose and they do not even sell respectable liquor. But the reasons for abolishing these drinking places are not summed up in "Save the Boy."

Cutting down the number of licenses from 400 to 300 or from 100 to 75 will not save the boy. He must be saved by the mother, the father and the school teacher. Teach him that intemperance is unmanly and injurious to his physical and mental well-being and he will be saved. Make his home life attractive. Give him the Y. M. C. A.'s athletic clubs and reading rooms, and he will not be attracted by the lures of the bar room.

To save the boy, he must be given a real ambition. To know that life is earnest, life is real, and that as a man sows so shall he reap is of prime importance. Take the money received from liquor licensees and spend it on public clubs, baths, gymnasiums and playgrounds, and the boy will have a chance. A clear, clean mind in a strong, clean body is the best safeguard against dissipation.—Canadian Courier.

AFTER deciding to publish a paper at the Illinois state penitentiary at Joliet, it was found that among 1500 prisoners there were no printers, although the supply of editors was quite adequate! Ouch!—Lethbridge Herald.

Council Meeting

The regular meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening last in the Council Chambers. Mayor Atkins, Councillors Moyle, Reed, Sinclair, Chambers Stark, Sec-Treasurer St. Clair and Solicitor Patterson present, Councillor Osmond absent.

The bills in the hands of the Sec-Treasurer were ordered paid as follows: Chris Rapine, $6; W. Wigglesworth, $5; Canadian Westinghouse Co., $10; A. J. Bright, $3.25; T. Petterbridge, $3.25; J. H. Anderson, $12; H. W. Chambers, $9.25; R. D. Anderson, $4.05; Baker & Bullis, $2; H. Roeth, $2.75; H. Roeth, $15.75; Canadian Coal & Coke Co., $49.15.

By Councillors Reed and Sinclair, that meters be purchased to replace those destroyed by fire.

By Councillors Reed and Moyle, that Constable Sick instruct Mr. J. Lieusler to obtain a building permit for building placed on lot 23, block 1, from the Mayor and Town Clerk, and that Council empower same to grant such permit if applied for under the provisions of by law No. 117, carried.

The Clerk was instructed to advertise for tenders for unloading coal from the cars to the municipal power house.

The Council then adjourned.

News of the Province

Carstairs citizens held a meeting last week and discussed the advisability of installing a large water tank and gasoline fire engine with 1500 feet of hose for fire protection, the whole to cost about $5,000. It looks as though the proposition will go through.

The purchase of a gasoline engine and the sinking of wells for fire fighting purposes is being considered by the town of Olds.

The picture shows men of the province are protesting against the imposition of a provincial and local license. They don't mind the local license, but to have to pay a license to Edmonton is galling them.

Because he forged certain C. P. R. bills of lading, thereby nearly doing the Ellison Milling company for the neat sum of $1500, George Armstrong was yesterday afternoon sentenced to spend the next three months in the barracks working for the government.—Lethbridge Herald.

The new C. P. R. hotel at Calgary, the Piedmont, it is expected will be opened for business on May 1st. When completed this hotel will have cost in the neighborhood of $1,500,000.

CHAPTER VIII

Only One Eye Closed

I am—I was—Allan Fleming's private secretary, Wardrop began. I secured the position through a relationship on his wife's side. I have held the position for three years. Before that I read law. For some time I have known that Mr. Fleming used a drug of some kind. Until a week ago I did not know what it was. On the 9th of May Mr. Fleming sent for me. I was in Pittsburgh at the time, and he was at home. He was in a terrible condition—not sleeping at all—and he said he was being followed by some person who meant to kill him. Finally he asked me to get him some cocaine, and when he had taken it he was more like himself. I thought the pursuit was only in his own head. He had a man named Carter on guard in his house and acting as butler.

There was trouble of some sort in the organization; I do not know just what. Mr. Schwartz came here to meet Mr. Fleming, and it seemed there was money needed. Mr. Fleming had to have it at once. He gave me some securities to take to Pittsburgh and turn into money. I went on the 10th.

Was that the day Mr. Fleming disappeared? the chief interrupted.

Yes. He went to the White Cat and stayed there. No one but the caretaker and one other man knew he was there. On the night of the 1st I came back, having turned my securities into money. I carried it in a package in a small Russia leather bag that never left my hand for a moment.

Mr. Knox here suggested that I had put it down and it had been exchanged for one just like it, but I did not let it out of my hand on that journey until I put it down on the porch at the Bellwood house while I tried to get in. I live at Bellwood with the Misses Maitland, sisters of Mr. Fleming's deceased wife. I don't pretend to know how it happened, but while I was trying to get into the house it was rifled. Mr. Knox will bear me out in that. I found my grip empty.

I affirmed it in a word.

What was in the bag? the chief asked.

Wardrop tried to remember.

A pair of pajamas, he said, two military brushes and a clothesbrush, two or three soft bosomed shirts, perhaps a half dozen collars and a suit of underwear.

And all this was taken, as well as the money?

The bag was empty, except for my railroad schedule.

Go on, if you please, the detective said cheerfully.

I think Wardrop realized the absurdity of trying to make any one believe that part of the story. He threw up his head, as if he intended to say nothing further.

Go on, I urged. If he could clear himself he must. I could not go back to Margery Fleming and tell her that her father had been murdered and her lover was accused of the crime.

The bag was empty, he repeated.

I had not been five minutes trying to open the shutters, and yet the bag had been rifled. Mr. Knox here found it among the flowers below the veranda empty.

The chief eyed me with awakened interest.

You also live at Bellwood, Mr. Knox?

No; I am attorney to Miss Letitia Maitland and was there one night as her guest. I found the bag as Mr. Wardrop described, empty.

The chief turned back to Wardrop.

How much money was there in it when—you left it?

A hundred thousand dollars. I was afraid to tell Mr. Fleming but I had to do it. We had a stormy scene this morning. I think he thought the natural thing—that I had taken it.

He struck you, I believe, and knocked you down? asked Hunter smoothly.

Wardrop flushed.

He was not himself, and—well, it meant a great deal to him. And he was out of cocaine. I left him raving, and when I went home I learned that Miss Jane Maitland had disappeared, been abducted at the time my satchel had been emptied. It's no wonder I question my sanity.

And then, tonight? the chief persisted.

Tonight I felt that some one would have to look after Mr. Fleming. I was afraid he would kill himself. It was a bad time to leave while Miss Jane was missing. But when I got to the White Cat I found him dead. He was sitting with his back to the door and his head on the table.

Was the revolver in his hand?

Yes.

You are sure? from Hunter. Isn't it a fact Mr. Wardrop, that you took Mr. Fleming's revolver from him this evening when he threatened you with it?

Wardrop's face twitched nervously. You have been misinformed, he replied, but no one was impressed by his tone. It was wavering, uncertain.

From Hunter's face I judged it had been a random shot and had landed unexpectedly well.

How many people knew that Mr. Fleming had been hiding at the White Cat? from the chief.

Very few—besides myself, only a man who looks after the clubhouse in the mornings and Clarkson, the cashier of the Borough bank, who met him there once by appointment.

The chief made no comment.

Now, Mr. Knox, you heard no shot while you were in the hall?

There was considerable noise. I heard two or three sharp reports like the explosions of an automobile engine.

You are right about the automobile, Hunter said. The mayor sent his car away as I left to follow Mr. Wardrop. The sounds you heard were not shots.

It is a strange thing, the chief reflected, that a revolver could be fired in the upper room of an ordinary dwelling house, while that house was filled with people, and nobody hear it. Were there any powder marks on the body?

None, Hunter said.

The chief got up stiffly. Thank you very much, gentlemen, Hunter. I would like to see you for a few minutes.

I think Wardrop was dazed at finding himself free. As we walked to the corner for a car or cab, which ever materialized first, he looked back.

I thought so, he said bitterly. A man was loitering after us along the street. The police were not asleep; they had closed only one eye.

The last train had gone. We took a night electric car to Wynton and walked three miles to Bellwood. Neither of us was talkative, and I imagine we were both thinking of Margery and the news she would have to hear.

It had been raining, and once Wardrop turned around to where we could hear the detective splashing along.

They came up together presently, and the three of us trudged on, talking of immaterial things.

At the door Wardrop turned to the detective with a faint smile. It is raining again, he said. You'd better come in. You needn't worry about me. I'm not going to run away, and there's a couch in the library.

The detective grinned, and in the light from the hall I recognized the man I had followed to the police station two nights before.

I guess I will, he said, looking apologetically at his muddy clothes. This thing is only a matter of form, anyway.

But he didn't lie down on the couch.

He took a chair in the hall near the foot of the stairs, and we left him there with the evening paper and a lamp.

Wardrop looked so wretched that I asked him into my room and mixed him some whisky and water. When I had given him a cigar he began to look a little less hopeless.

You have been a darned sight better to me than I would have been to you under the circumstances, he said gratefully.

I thought we would better arrange about Miss Margery before we try to settle down, I replied. Will you tell her about her father?

I believe it would come better from you, he said finally. I am in the peculiar position of having been suspected by her father of robbing him, by you of carrying away her aunt and now by the police and everybody else of murdering her father.

I do not suspect you of anything, I justified myself. I don't think you are entirely open, that is all, Wardrop. I think you are damaging yourself to shield someone else.

His expressive face was on its guard in a moment. He ceased his restless pacing, pausing impressively before me.

I give you my word as a gentleman I do not know who killed Mr. Fleming and that when I first saw him dead my only thought was that he had killed himself.

He had threatened to that day. Why, if you think I killed him you would have to think I robbed him, too, in order to find a motive.

I did not tell him that that was precisely what Hunter did think. I evaded the issue.

Mr. Wardrop did you ever hear of the figures eleven twenty-two? You know—

Mr. Fleming use them?

He looked puzzled.

Probably, he said. In the very nature of Mr. Fleming's position, we used figures all the time. Eleven twenty-two. That's the time the train leaves the city for Bellwood. Not what you want, eh?

The Bridal Veil

The bridal veil is evidently of eastern origin, being a relic of the bridal canopy held over the heads of the bride and bridegroom. Among the Anglo-Saxons a similar custom existed, but if the bride was a widow it was dispensed with. According to Sarum usage, a fine linen cloth was laid upon the heads of the bride and bridegroom and was not removed until the benediction had been said. The old British custom was to use nature's veil unadorned—that is, the long hair of the bride, which was so worn by all brides, royal, noble and simple.

Only then did every one behold the tresses of maidenhood in their entirety and for the last time, as after marriage they were neatly dressed on the head.

Among some the tresses were cut and carefully stowed away on a woman becoming a wife. It was customary in Russia for village brides to shear their locks on returning from church.

Presumably the Anglo-French tunnel is to be a sort of 'hands under the sea' affair.

BETTER POSITION

And Increased Salary as a Result of Eating Right Food

There is not only comfort in eating food that nourishes brain and body but sometimes it helps a lot in increasing one's salary.

A Western school teacher tells an interesting experience. She says:

"About two years ago I was extremely miserable from a nervousness that had been coming on for some time.

Any sudden noise was actually painful to me and my nights were made miserable by horrible nightmares.

"I was losing flesh all the time and at last was obliged to give up the school I was teaching and go home.

"Mother put me to bed and sent for the doctor. I was so nervous the cotone sheets gave me a chill and they put me in woolens. The medicine I took did me no apparent good. Finally, a neighbor suggested that Grape-Nuts might be good for me to eat.

I had never heard of this food, but the name sounded good so I decided to try it.

"I began to eat Grape-Nuts and soon found my reserve energy growing so that in a short time I was filling a better position and drawing a larger salary than I had ever done before.

"As I see little children playing around me and enter into their games I wonder if I am the same teacher of whom, two years ago, the children spoke as 'ugly old thing.'

"Grape-Nuts food with cream has become a regular part of my diet, and I have not been sick a day in the past two years." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

"There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

Emily Bronte's Looks

A discussion as to the personal appearance of Emily Bronte reveals the remarkable fact that no one knows anything about it since there is no authentic portrait in existence. When Charlotte Bronte first saw George Henry Lewes she said that he was wonderfully like her sister Emily, but this is unfortunate for Emily since Lewes was very much like a baboon.

Possibly the comparison was due to a sisterly candor that so seldom errs on the side of mercy. Thanks to photography, the historian of the future will not be in doubt as to the appearance of celebrities of the present generation, but he is likely to have his own opinion as to those worth knowing about.

Corns cripple the feet and make walking a torture, yet sure relief in the shape of Holloway's Corn Cure is within reach of all.

Origin of the Dead Letter Office

What was the reason for our office getting its name of the dead letter office, as it is often called? said an official in the returned letter office. Well, it was originally started in order to return to the senders all letters, etc., addressed to people who turned out to be dead.

The need for such an arrangement became evident from the number of valuable inclosures contained in such missives, and that the old tradition still lingers in the department is evident from the fact that the bags containing returned letters are black in color.

Yes, there are people who imagine us to be mysteriously connected with death itself, and some time back we received a peculiar letter from one of them. Within a week of having a letter returned to her a certain person living in the same house had died, and consequently the writer, evidently associating her friend's death directly with us, begged us in future never to send back letters again, but to burn them instead.

Dealing With a Lunatic

In front of the Chelsea house, Sir Thomas More had a garden and gatehouse, and as there was a pleasant view from the summit of the gate house, he used frequently to sit there, accompanied only by his dog. Here it was that he was found one afternoon by a wandering maniac, who crept upstairs and saw the feeble old man dozing.

Leap, Tom, leap, he cried, and at the same time tried to throw him over the battlements. More had not physical strength enough to resist, but he had the wit to say.

Let us first throw this little dog over.

The man immediately threw down the dog.

Pretty sport, said the lord chancery. Now, go down and bring him up; then try again.

While the madman went down for the dog, More made fast the door behind him and so managed to hold the fort until deliverance came.

Good Substitute

Why have you not come to my bridge party as you promised? telephoned the irate hostess. You are breaking up one table.

I am sick, was the reply.

That's an old excuse

Zigzag Trail

It Was Difficult, but He Conquered It

By GLARISSA MACKIE

"She came out of Cox's store, got on her pony and went a-kitting for the west bank of the creek. I followed her a little ways, thinking she was a tenderfoot, and I'll be blamed if she didn't turn spang into Zigzag trail and disappear!"

Hamp Tellow looked around at his companions gathered about the mess table in the bunk house at the Twin Star ranch.

"Zigzag trail, eh?" repeated Jink Prale, helping himself to another hot biscuit.

"Yes." "Have you ever traveled that devous route?" pursued Jink in his deliberate way.

"No, but I've heard tell that since the landslide there ain't footin' there for man or beast."

"No more there ain't," returned Jink, buttering his ninth hot biscuit. "That's why I reckoned you was dreaming when you said you 'aw a girl and pony disappear down the trail."

"It was bright moonlight and I saw her plain as day," returned Hamp, undisturbed by Jink's skepticism. "Besides, I went back to the store and asked Dan Cox who she was."

"And who is she?" demanded a dozen eager voices.

"Dan said he didn't know; said she never asked for mail, and that, although she bought plenty of supplies from him, he didn't know any more about her than he did at first. Been around these parts about four weeks, Dan says."

Hamp Tellow might have continued to discourse upon his chance encounter with the strange girl, but his companions were more interested in discussing the approaching roundup than listening to him.

Perhaps he would have risked their ridicule and described the singular beauty of the girl, but he had little desire to talk to empty air and presently forgot the stranger.

One man among those at the table listened to Hamp's story, and because he was new to the country Bob Deering asked questions about Zigzag trail.

Jink Prale answered the questions readily and went so far as to tell the newcomer that somewhere along the abandoned trail was the tumble-down cottage of a sheep herder, who had left the country at the time when cattle had crowded the sheep from the ranges.

The next day Bob Deering was sent in search of a lost steer.

His search led him down the west bank of Red Spider creek, and eventually he came to the point where there were traces of an old trail that zigzagged down the canyon and disappeared in a heap of broken rocks and earth.

"Zigzag trail!" he exclaimed, bending down to examine the grass grown way.

His ten years of cattle ranching since college days had made the signs of earth and sky as an open book to him. For the trained eye there was much to be read in the old trail.

"The lost critter went this way," mused Bob, "and the girl goes this way too. Why? There isn't a blamed thing on this trail except the but—I have Jink's word for that—so the girl must have been bound for the but."

"I scent a mystery, and, as duty calls me to hunt for the stray critter, here goes!"

Bob Deering left his horse and scrambled along the trail that zigzagged among the rocks in the most puzzling manner. So intricate were its windings that Bob presently found himself scrambling on to the main trail again and staring his horse in the face.

"Daniel, if you laugh at me I'll sell you to a soap factory!" panted Bob as Daniel resumed his nipping of the way-side grass. "I've certainly got to get to the right trail if it takes me all day. I missed a turn somewhere."

Bob turned about and once more scrambled along the trail. At an egg shaped rock he paused and studied the ground, and then, plunging through a thicket of mesquite, he found himself on a well worn trail that circled the shoulder of the hill and gradually led upward.

Occasionally he stooped to study the ground, and each pause only strengthened his belief that he was on the right trail of the lost steer.

"Hands up!" came a sharp voice, and instinctively Bob's hands went over his head with quick discretion.

When he could discover the source of the unexpected holdup on Zigzag trail Bob found himself confronting a beautiful dark eyed young woman, who leveled a pistol at him with each steady hand.

She was the most beautiful creature he had ever seen; Bob was sure of that—jet black hair waving about shell pink ears, creamy skin, a pair of wonderful eyes, sometimes black, occasionally almost green. She wore a riding skirt of khaki and a white shirt waist. Her head was bare.

"Well," asked Bob pleasantly, "is it my money or my life?"

The girl laughed nervously, and then tears filled her eyes.

"It's neither one, if you will only go away," she answered in a pleading tone.

"Of course, if you wish it, only I am looking for a stray steer. Perhaps you have seen such a one. It has the twin star brand!"

He stopped short, for the girl's face had turned scarlet and then white. The hands that held the guns wavered.

"I've seen it," she said at last in a rather shaky voice.

"Where is it?" he asked quickly.

The girl's face went very white, and she leaned against a tree for support, the pistols hanging limply from her hands.

"It's—dead!" she said at last.

"Dead?" he echoed, puzzled by her agitation.

"We killed it. We needed it for food. I suppose we will hang for it," she said, with a desperate attempt at calmness, although Bob could see that she was panic stricken.

He sat down on a stone and clasped his sun browned hands around his knee. His broad hat lay on the ground, and the wind ruffled his crisp, fair hair.

"I hope you will pardon me. I'm not a bit curious, but I can see that you are in trouble of some sort. This is a lonesome country to be in when old man Trouble hikes along, so perhaps I can help you out. You may place perfect confidence in me."

The girl studied his face with her wonderful, changing eyes. Then, with little catch of the breath, she said:

"If I tell you you must never betray my confidence."

"You may trust me," said Bob.

The girl drew a sharp breath.

"My father lies hidden in the but yonder. He is a fugitive from justice. He killed a man. I came with him!"

Bob smothered an exclamation.

"What can I do to help you?" he asked quickly.

"Keep every one away and help me to get some supplies. Father is almost crazy with grief and remorse, and he is anxious to return and give himself up; but," she ended fiercely, "I have told him he must not now! In the eyes of God he is innocent, and he should not be punished!"

"Thank you for the confidence you repose in me. I will do what I can to keep others away. Give me a list of things you need, and I will pack them here tonight."

Fifteen minutes later Bob Deering mounted his patient horse and sued about his business for the Red Star ranch.

After supper that night he rode over to Red Spider postoffice and astonished Dan Cox by purchasing a large quantity of supplies, including some cigar and a number of magazines and newspapers.

Bob read the papers while he waited for his packages, and when he finally turned into the trail along the creek his face was a study of mingled pleasure and regret.

The trip along Zigzag trail in the moonlight, with his supplies for the needy strangers, was no easy matter, and Bob was quite breathless when he reached the sheep herder's hut.

"Good news, Miss Greyson," he said after he had received her thanks and those of her aged, caroworn father.

"Good news for us!" she asked incredulously.

He nodded and, pulling a newspaper from his pocket, held it to the light streaming from the doorway and read a paragraph that turned the current of their lives.

It appeared that the man whom James Greyson had struck in self defense had recovered and every effort was being made to discover the whereabouts of the missing financier and his beautiful daughter.

Bob Deering shared in their rejoicing, and it was he who helped them get away.

When they parted James Greyson held the young man's hand in his.

"The best ranch in the country for you whenever you say the word, Deering. Maybe you'll be getting married some day and settle down."

"Maybe," said Bob dreamily, for he was holding Helen's hand in his.

"Maybe"—His eyes met the splendid ones of the girl he had learned to love, and he read in them that there was no uncertainty before him.

He would be married some day, and to her!

And Hamp Tellow never guessed why it was that Bob Deering nicknamed him "Cupid."

Strong Influence.

Friend—You have great influence over your husband. He never left your side all yesterday. How did you manage it?

Wife—Oh, I just sat firmly on the tails of his coat; that's all.

VETERAN TO RETIRE.

DR. S. B. ROBINS IS CANADA'S OLDEST ACTIVE EDUCATIONIST.

After nearly two-thirds of a century devoted to the cause of education in Ontario and Quebec, one of Canada's oldest educationists—in all probability the very oldest both in age and years of active service—has announced his retirement from public life in the person of Dr. S. B. Robins, who has passed the four-score mark, and first taught near Cobourg, Ont., in 1848. For about half a century Dr. Robins had been associated with the development of Normal schools in Montreal, until the Normal school of which he was head ceased to have a separate existence in 1907. For more than a third of a century the venerable doyen of his profession was a member of the Protestant Committee of Public Instruction, a position from which he publicly announced his resignation a few days ago, giving for his reason "advanced age."

In a conversation with Dr. Robins a few days ago, he talked for nearly two hours most interestingly of educational development in Ontario and Quebec, including reminiscences of pre-Confederation days in Toronto. His first teaching position was in a rural school, on the fourth line of Dummer, in what was then called Western Canada. He was then still in his teens, and soon moved to a country school house near Cobourg. It was while teaching near there that he became acquainted with the famous Canadian educationist, Dr. Egerton Ryerson, with whom thereafter his life was to be more or less intimately associated.

Dr. Robins has many keen recollections of events and incidents which have passed into history, including the fights of pre-Confederation days, the riots during the Barney Devlin-D'Arcy McGee election, the burning of the Douglas planing mill in 1858, because of hatred for the head of the company, who had converted his servant girl from Catholicism to Protestantism, and other exciting occurrences.

Though drawing on apace towards the century mark, Dr. Robins is still strong and vigorous, walks upright, and can read small print easily. His conversation is almost that of a purist, and his memory really wonderful in its wealth of detail.

He made, early in life, two resolutions, which he has kept. These are:

"Never to seek wealth."

"Never to seek political preferment."

He attributes his enjoyment of a life replete with action to his adherence to these two principles.

He has just broken one life-long principle—never to seek newspaper publicity. But now, on his retirement, he agreed to break this. He says he thinks he's old enough now to do this without anyone saying that he has any ulterior end in view.

At his home, 94 St. Matthew street, Montreal, with an unmarried daughter, Dr. Robins lives quietly, in peace and seclusion. He spends his leisure reading and solving abstruse mathematical problems, as, when he specialized in this department of knowledge a few decades ago, he had a reputation as a mathematician which was international. The study of prime numbers is his latest hobby.

Few men continue their studies as octogenarians, but Dr. Robins' thousands of friends in Montreal, Toronto, and other parts of Canada, including all who have passed under his tutelage, wish him many more years of happiness and usefulness.

The greatest long-distance power transmission in Southern Asia is in the native State of Mysore, power being transmitted from the Cauvery Falls to the Kolar gold fields, ninety-two miles away, and to the cities of Mysore and Bangalore, about forty and eighty-six miles away, respectively, for electric lighting and power purposes.

MORE "LABBY" STORIES.

THE LAUGHING PHILOSOPHER DEARLY LOVED A JOKE.

"Labby" was never taken seriously as a politician, but the world enjoyed him as a jester, and that the world was right in its estimate of him is proved by "The Life of Henry Labouchere," by his nephew, Mr. Algar Labouchere Thorold, which have just been published. He suffered two great disappointments in the course of his political career—Mr. Gladstone failed to include him in the 1892 Ministry, and Lord Rosebery refused to make him ambassador at Washington. We cannot wonder at either decision; but we can admire the philosophic vein in which "Labby" accepted defeat. "It should never be forgotten," says his biographer, "that Henry Labouchere was, in fact, a Frenchman. French by birth, he remained, to the day of his death, French in his method of formation of opinion, in his outlook on life, in the peculiar quality of his wit. It was this that enabled, or rather obliged, him to take that curiously detached view of English ideals which was at times so disconcerting even to those who thought that they understood him."

Here is his career in a nutshell:

Sent down from Cambridge.

Visited the principal gambling places of Europe.

Wandered for six months with Red Indians in the Wild West.

Wore pink tights in a circus, being in love with a lady performer.

Had many more adventures.

Spent ten years in the diplomatic service.

Founded "Truth."

Entered Parliament and became chief Radical wirepuller.

Writing to a friend with regard to his appointment as secretary of Legation to the Republic of Panama, he said:—"I had never heard of this Republic * * * so I remained comfortably in Italy and drew my salary like a bishop." After twelve months urgent messages reached him asking why he had not proceeded to his post. He replied: "I have spent twelve months in diligent inquiries respecting the whereabouts of the Republic of Panama, hitherto without success. If your lordship will inform me where it is I need hardly say I will hasten there."

His drolleries were innumerable; he was rarely in serious need for long.

At his house in Old Palace Yard he kept a playbill of an American circus in which he figured (when he was attache at Washington) as "Bounding Buck of Babylon," a jumper. There was a lady in the troupe, of course. "I wore pink tights," "Labby" related, "with a fillet round my head. My adorable one said I looked a dear." As an attache at Stockholm he went to convey Queen Victoria's congratulations and inquiries on the birth of a royal baby. The sole on gentleman who received him complained that "His Royal Highness is suffering a little internally, and it is thought that this is due to the ill of the wet nurse having been slightly sour yesterday evening." Labouchere telephoned this to the Foreign Office.

His drolleries were innumerable; he was rarely in serious need for long.

At his house in Old Palace Yard he kept a playbill of an American circus in which he figured (when he was attache at Washington) as "Bounding Buck of Babylon," a jumper. There was a lady in the troupe, of course. "I wore pink tights," "Labby" related, "with a fillet round my head. My adorable one said I looked a dear." ## Six Children Burned

Cobonk, Ont., Jan. 17.—Six Children in the family of Mrs. Cora Weatherby, a widow, were burned to death to day in a fire which destroyed their home. The woman herself was also severely burned and is in such a state of prostration that her story has not yet been learned.

There are houses about a hundred feet away on either side, and the neighbors were awakened about 2 o'clock by screams and the crackling of flames. They reached the burning house just in time to take care of the distressed woman, but so far had the fire progressed that the building collapsed before any attempt could be made to reach the children. The victims ranged in age from 1 to 11 years, and included two boys and four girls.

Mrs. Weatherby is about 35 years of age and her husband came from Toronto about three years ago. She has been a widow about two years. She escaped in her night clothes by jumping from an upper window and her hands are badly gashed from broken glass.

The bodies of the children were recovered from the debris burned to a crisp.

Forestry Facts

Mr. R. H. Campbell, Director of Forestry, who recently returned from a tour of inspection of the Dominion Forest Reserves in the West, says: 'Unquestionably the work there is in better shape this year than ever before.' 'Not only have fire fighting facilities, such as trails, lookout stations, telephone lines, tool-caches and fire-guards, been very much improved, but the construction of good roads has made the pleasure resorts in these reserves more accessible to the public.'

The larch, or 'tamarack,' of eastern Canada will soon be commercially extinct. Already according to Dr. Gordon Hewitt, the Dominion Entomologist, its enemy, the large larch sawfly has destroyed between fifty and one hundred per cent of the eastern larch. This insect pest was introduced into the United States from Europe about 1881, and, having taken natural enemies in America, has spread over the whole eastern half of the Continent. It is doubtful whether it will be brought under control.

The revenue from the forests of British India, under the administration of the Indian Forest Service, mounted last year to fourteen million dollars. Over one and one-quarter million dollars were derived from the sale of minor produce other than lumber, and a similar amount was obtained by leasing grazing privileges in these forests.

Many cases of the Indian's wastefulness with game have been noted in the West. One Dominion Forest Surveyor writes: 'The Indians slaughter an enormous number of moose, of which they waste over half. Often they take away only the hide, while they seldom take away more than the hind quarters.'

Lord Strathcona Critically Ill

Lord Strathcona, Canada's grand old man and her highest representative in London, Eng., was taken seriously ill in London last week. Lord Strathcona is well up in years, and the death of his wife a short time ago has had a disastrous effect on his health.

Later—LORD STRATHCONA DEAD
London, Jan. 21.—Lord Strathcona died at 1.55 this morning.

The aged statesman's last moments were very quiet, and he passed away peacefully in his sleep.

His lordship's fatal illness was but short, and it was realized from an early hour Saturday morning that he was sinking beyond recovery.

DINGMAN ON THE EVE OF STRIKING OIL

Calgary Excited—Considerable Trading in Leases—New Companies Are Preparing to Drill

RUMORS THAT OIL HAS BEEN STRUCK ARE VERY PERSISTENT

The past week has been one of suppressed excitement throughout the district owing to the rumors that oil had been struck in the Dingman well. There was much to lend color to these rumors. Several of the directors of the Calgary Petroleum Products Co. have made hurried trips to the well, and it is admitted that they have sat up far into the night waiting for the word. Early in the week Manager Dingman was interviewed by the Calgary News-Telegram and gave the following for publication: "No, we cannot say that we have struck oil yet, at least we had not when I was last advised of the situation, but I would not be surprised any day now if we did. The situation is looking more favorable every day now with depth."

It is known that the daily log shows the formation passed through to be just as expected, which indicates that the oil sands should be reached at some point in the next 350 feet. It was reported early in the week that the company were constructing a reservoir to contain the oil, which report the company will neither affirm nor deny.

The discovery of a large body of oil in the Dingman property will have an immediate effect on the value of the surrounding properties, since it will confirm Cunningham Craig's statements regarding the position of the anticline. His last public statement in Calgary was as follows:

"The investigations which I have made have confirmed my previous good opinion of the Southern Alberta oil fields, and I am of the opinion that oil exists there in commercial quantities, although only actual drilling will prove this contention of mine for a certainty."

Several Anticlines Exist

"There are several anticlines in Southern Alberta, but they are small, narrow ones, and leases situated outside of these anticlines will have no oil on them at all."

"Subterranean upheavals are responsible for this peculiar feature of the anticlines and it is very hard for even an expert to determine just where the oil is situated."

"For example, a well may be sunk on a portion of one section and oil may be struck in this well in commercial quantities, while another well sunk on the same section may prove to be what is called a 'duster.'

Thinks Highly of Dingman Well

"I am of the opinion that the Dingman well will eventually turn out to be a good oil-producing well, but it may only be situated on the extreme edge of the anticline. If this is so, then many of the adjacent leases will be worth absolutely nothing from an oil-producing standpoint."

"The investigation which I have made of the Mowbray-Berkeley holdings lead me to believe that there is oil on a great part of this property. In fact these holdings are as good as any I have examined in the Southern Alberta oil fields."

Considerable interest is being displayed as to the character of the expected oil, it being generally agreed that the extraordinary oil this well produced in November last was merely a seepage, refined to a very high degree by the repeated filtering process it passed through in its passage from its home in the oil sands to the point at which it broke into the well. An exhaustive test at that time gave the following results:

"One of the most remarkable and peculiar oils we have ever come across—in fact phenomenal. The test that has just been made shows a 90 per cent. gasoline content—that means that the crude petroleum, in its refined state, is 90 per cent. gasoline. Having ascertained this, it is no surprise that they are able to drive in from the well on the crude product and find that it developed 25 per cent. increased efficiency."—J. A. Kelso, managing director of Kelso Testing Laboratories—Alberta Mineral Age.

The Army of Constipation

Is Growing Smaller Every Day.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The terminal elevators in Minnesota gained more than five million bushels of No. one Northern wheat as a result of mixing the wheat of lower grades during the crop year ending August 31, 1913, according to figures just made public by the state railroad and warehouse commission.

Practically all of the inferior grades lost in amount in the elevators as a result of the gain made, in the No. one Northern. During the year the elevators received 17,566,059 bushels, of No. one Northern. These same elevators shipped out 17,866,598 bushels, and on Sept. 1 still had on hand 5,368,218 bushels. The total number of bushels of No. one Northern the elevators had and shipped out 23,172,816. The total average amounted to 5,606,757.

The grain was purchased from the farmers on the grades that it went into the elevators and was naturally sold for the grade that it came out. The profit to the terminal elevators during the past year was enormous according to those interested in the grain business.

Much of the number two Northern that came in during the last crop year went to swell the No. 1 Northern in the elevators. While there were 11,148,039 bushels received only 7,622,650 bushels were shipped out, and there was on hand on Aug. 31, 2,091,21. Here then there was a shortage of 2,091,201 bushels. This amount had been raised to No. 1 Northern.

The same story is told in the case of No. three Northern. The total amount received by the elevators was 3,288,412 bushels. By Aug. 31, a total of 3,024,904 bushels had been shipped out and there was on hand 52,752 bushels. The shortage here was 210,756 bushels, all of which had gone to make up the higher grades.

With No. four Northern the same proposition is clear. The amount received was 15,246 and the amount shipped out was only 3,525. There was none on hand Aug. 31. The shortage in this grade was 11,723.

No Grade Shortage

In the No Grade classification the shortage is larger than in any other. The total amount of No Grade wheat received was 4,212,150. The amount shipped out was 1,210,295, and the amount on hand 282,954. The shortage was 2,718,901 bushels.

There was an average in the rejected class of 1,522 bushels. The amount received was 886,186, and the amount shipped out was 912,831, and the amount on hand was 104,876. Much of the surplus here came from the No Grade wheat, according to inspectors in the service of the Railroad and Warehouse commission.

With the publication of the figures on mixing for the crop year that has just ended Minnesota and Dakota farmers are again beginning to wonder just what they have gained by the mixing right which the elevators possess.

The figures only cover the public terminal elevators. There are hundreds of private elevators that do even more mixing than the public elevators. If the figures for all of the elevators in Minnesota that mix could be obtained, representatives of the Railroads and Warehouse commissioners say, the results would be much more evident.

Farmers Were Anxious

Farmers who were interested in the legislative investigations into the grain situation last winter have been anxiously awaiting the publication of the results of mixing for the past crop year.

The crop was one of the largest ever harvested in the northwest. Much of the wheat was of a high grade.

Representatives A. F. Teighen, of Chippewa county, and C. M. Bendixen and others, are considering some sort of legislation that will give the farmer more of a share of the result of the mixing. Representative Bendixen has been quoted as saying he did not believe that the farmers were getting their full share of the enormous profit.

The farmers are paid for the wheat at the grade it goes into the elevators, he said, when the question was brought up. The elevator men are the only ones who gain by the right to mix. There ought to be some legislation that will give the farmers some benefit from the privilege that is now permitted the elevator men.

Congressman James A. Menahan, just before leaving for Washington, voiced the same sentiments. He has been considering for some time the feasibility of making some change in the laws governing the mixing of grain.

FAKED GRAIN GRADES YIELD HUGE PROFITS

Figures Relating to Minnesota Elevators Show Nos. Three and Four Sold as No. One

HOW TO CURE HORSE DISTEMPER

An Experienced Horseman Solemnly Declares Nothing is so Satisfactory as Nerviline

Says Nerviline Is Fine Liniment

"After fifty years' experience in raising horses I can safely testify that no remedy gives such good results for an all-round stable liniment as Nerviline." Thus opens the very earnest letter of J. J. Evanston, who lives near Wellington. "I had a very valuable horse that took distemper a month ago, and was afraid I was going to lose him. His throat swelled and hard lumps developed. His nostrils ran and he had a terrible cough. I tried different remedies, but was unable to relieve my horse of his pain and suffering till I started to use Nerviline. I mixed a bottle of Nerviline and sweet oil and applied the mixture on the throat and chest three times a day, and you would scarcely believe the way that horse picked up. Nerviline cured him. I also have used Nerviline for colic in horses and cows, and earnestly recommend it to every man that is raising stock."

For strains, sprains, swellings, colic, distemper, coughs, and colds, no liniment will prove so efficacious in the stable as "Nerviline"—it's good for man or beast, for internal or external use. Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse substitutes. Large size bottles 50c.; trial size, 25c., at all dealers, or the Catarrhzone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Assistance Necessary

The first field glasses taken to the first Hebrides sorely puzzled the simple minded natives. A traveler tells how one of the mission clergy was walking along the shore, when a native at his side pointed out a figure in the far distance. There goes one of my enemies, said he. The white man, drawing out his field glasses and focusing them, handed them to his companion, who, going through them in amazement, beheld his foe apparently close at hand. Dropping the glasses, he seized his arrows and looked again. The enemy was as far away as at first. Once more he exchanged them for his arrows and once more was baffled. A bright thought suddenly occurred to him. You hold the glasses to my eyes, said he to the missionary, and I can shoot him.

Time Has Tested It.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil has been on the market upwards of thirty years and in that time it has proved a blessing to thousands. It is in high favor throughout Canada and its excellence has carried its fame beyond the seas. It has no equal in the whole list of liniments. If it were double the price it would be a cheap liniment.

A French Comedy

When John Rudyard was building his famous wooden Eddystone light-house he was much harassed by the depredations of French privateers. Thus on one memorable day all his men were surprised while at work and borne off in triumph to France as prisoners of war, the captors thinking they had done something very smart. But Louis XIV did not approve at all and promptly ordered the men's release. Their work, he said, is for the benefit of all nations. I am at war with England, not with humanity.

Badly Disappointed

Little Mattle flew into the house one evening very late for nursery tea and hurried to her mother's chair. Oh, mother, she cried, don't scold me, for I've had such a disappointment. A horse fell down in the street, and they said they were going to send for a horse doctor, so of course, I had to stay. And after I waited and waited he came, and oh, mother, what do you think, it was only a man!

Bringing It Home

I was reading an aw—account of a woman being gored to death by a beastly cow, doncher know, remarked young Dudley. Well, I can't imagine a more horribble affair, can you, Miss Caustique?

No, Mr. Dudley, replied Miss Caustique, with a mighty yawn, unless it is being bored to death by a calf.

PRESIDENT SUSPENDER

Cultured Hindus

In Bengal there are about 70,000,000 of people and they boast of perhaps the best culture in India at the present time. The language as a written language is only fifty years old.

Though for over a thousand years it has been a dialect, there is in Indian history unfortunately no trace of Bengali having been an important literary tongue.

The language originates from Sanskrit, the mother tongue from which every other Indian language has borrowed its alphabet, grammar and vocabulary; but unlike the others, Bengali never shrinks from gathering new materials.

There are numerous Persian, French, Arabic and English words incorporated in it, and the wonder of it is that, instead of having been degraded into some vulgar form like nudge English, Bengali has become the most literary, scientific and perhaps the most philosophic of modern Indian languages.

Very Sad

First Saleswoman.—She was caught in the act of concealing a hand mirror.

Second Saleswoman.—Poor woman! That's what comes of taking a glass too much.

SPARKLING EYES AND RUBY LIPS

The Birthright of Every Girl With Rich, Red Blood

The sad eye that goes with bloodlessness is a sure sign of misery and weakness. Anaemia—that is bloodless girls and women have dull, heavy eyes with dark lines underneath. The eyelid is pulled down, looks pale and bloodshot inside. This is not all. Anaemia works havoc all through the system; girls grow painfully weak and irritable; they are breathless and incapable of much exertion, while older women who are anaemic complain of "never really well."

There is only one way to brighter, better health for pale, pining girls and women. That way is to invigorate the body with new blood—the rich, healthy blood that imparts strength, cleanses the system of all impurities, and restores the bright eyes and red lips of perfect health. Thousands of girls and women know that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People make this new, rich, red blood, and so restore health and strength more surely than any other medicine known.

There would not be an anaemic woman or girl in the land if those suffering from this condition would give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. That is why so many recommend these pills to their suffering sisters. Mrs. R. B. Keith, Steeves Settlement, N.B., says:

"At the age of 13 my daughter Sadie began to complain of constant headaches, and did not have her usual good appetite. I went to a doctor and got some medicine, but it did not help her, and finally she had to discontinue going to school. She seemed to be growing weaker every day and wanted to lie down all the time, and would continually complain of being tired. The doctor gave her another bottle of medicine, but with no better results. There was not a bit of color in her face or lips, and I was afraid she was going into a decline. A friend who was in to see her said, 'If she was my child I would try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills,' and I decided I would take the advice. In a couple of weeks we could see a difference, as her eyes looked brighter, and she would try to eat a little. When she began the pills she could not dress herself alone, but little by little her strength came back until she could go for a walk. She continued the use of the pills several months with the result that she was again strong and active. This was over two years ago, and she has been a strong, healthy girl ever since. We have since used the pills for other purposes and find the a good medicine."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers, or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Subdue the Peer

In her reminiscences Lady Dorothy Nevil said that in her younger days parents were very particular about the matrimonial alliances made in their families, and she told an amusing story of one old peer who was greatly surprised to be told by his sister that she had developed a great affection for a well known scientist of humble birth:

The peer sent for him and said brusquely: Now, sir, I should like to know something about your family.

I think it will be sufficient, replied the scientist, to say that I descended from the illustrious blood of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

The peer was taken aback. Oh, he said, of course, my family has nothing to compare with that. Therefore, if my sister really likes you, you'd better take her.

And the scientist did.

Hope

There is no sweeter suffering than hope. So runs an old German proverb, melancholy text for hearts that bitter disappointment has cured and to whom all hope is but memory.

WHY KEEP ON COUGHING?

Here Is A Remedy That Will Stop It!

Do you realize the danger in a neglected cough?

Then why don't you get rid of it?

Yes, you can shake it off, even though it has stuck to you for a long time, if you go about it right.

Keep out in the fresh air as much as you can, build up your strength with plenty of wholesome food, and take Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne.</p

Grazing Lease Regulations

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—It has been learned here that regulations satisfactory alike to the Alberta delegation and to the delegation of the live stock men who were in the capital during the past week, have been arrived at with regard to leasing privileges in that portion of the province lying between a line drawn from the point at which the Red Deer river passes through township 28 to the international boundary on the east and the Canadian Pacific, Calgary, Edmonton and McLeod branch on the west. This comprises, roughly the eastern portion of the province, and excludes the foothill country west of the railroad.

In connection with the eastern, or short grass country, the recommendations contemplate an 8 year fixed tenure of lease, maximum area of half a township, or 12,120 acres, 30 acres of land for one animal, 5 sheep to count in lieu of a head of cattle. The leases must be stocked to three-quarters of their capacity during the first year and fully stocked at the end of the second; all leases must be fenced; lessees must maintain at all times 25 per cent of female stock. It is left to the discretion of the minister to deal with existing leases in the matter of extending cancellation periods, etc.

In connection with those proposed regulations, it is said that all the delegates were in accord, and it is probable that they will be put into force.

In connection with the western portion, towards the foothills, the Conservative delegation advocated that it be administered under the commonage system to provide grazing for the small stock men. It was also recommended that cancellation proceedings be taken against ranchers in this country who had not lived up to the regulations. In connection with the proposals in this section, it is believed that the cattlemen here were opposed to the commonage system and it is understood that no definite decision has yet been arrived at in connection with this part of the province.

The appointment of a permanent ranching commission was advocated by certain of the members.—Morning Albertan.
